When location is everything

The Vuorikatu 14 property, also known as the Halonen building, is a modern office and retail property in the Fennia Quarter in the Helsinki city centre. Situated next to the Railway Station Square, the it is easily accessible by public transport from all corners of the Helsinki metropolitan area.

Thanks to the central location, all the commercial and business services of the city centre are within a short walking distance and the customer volumes are high.

The building, erected in 1927, was thoroughly renovated in the early 2000s to serve as a modern office and retail property. The five uppermost floors house renovated office space, and the street level has retail space for rent. The premises can be easily modified according to specific needs. There are a number of restaurants at the street level. The property is ideal for a company that values good public transport connections and a wide variety of services in the city centre.
